

Indira has over twenty (20) years' experience as a first generation entrepreneur, in co-founding and growing Value Software Technologies (VAST), a multi-technology IT firm in India, which started as a project services company but over the last four years pivoted to a pure product company. Over the years she has managed various responsibilities in the firm covering Marketing, Product Build, Finance, Administration and Infrastructure establishment, Currently as Head-Products, she is responsible for all activities pertaining to CoRMS, an Asset and Infrastructure Management product that covers the entire life cycle of the asset.

Prior to this, Indira had over seven (7) years' of experience in a variety of roles covering collegiate teaching, industrial research for a MNC, research at an overseas University, industrial products marketing and general administration in an IT services firm.

She is one of the founder members of Empowering Women in IT (eWIT) and currently an Executive Committee member in charge of its academic initiatives. eWIT is a non-profit organization of women professionals in IT & ITES which strives to increase the share and sustainability of women in IT & ITES and helps, guides and supports women in building and growing their career at various stages, taking up leadership roles whilst managing their familial responsibilities.

Indira holds Masters and Pre-Doctoral degrees from a leading Indian university, besides which she has undergone specialist training in Entrepreneurship, Finance and General Management during her employment and her entrepreneurial journey.